CAUSAL FACTOR FOR THE SUPPLEMENT

The significant new factor on the basis of which this Supplement has been prepared is the publication by S&P Global Ratings Europe Limited (Germany branch) as of 24 June 2021 regarding the changes to the issuer rating of DZ BANK from AA- to A+ and the short-term rating from A-1+ to A-1 (the "causal factor for the Supplement"). The causal factor for the Supplement, therefore, took effect on 24 June 2021.

I. Replacement information pertaining to the section "RISK FACTORS"

The 2nd paragraph under the heading "RISK FACTORS SPECIFIC AND MATERIAL TO THE ISSUER – 1.3 Overarching bank-related risk factors – 1.3.1 Issuer Risk" on pages 19 and 20 of the Prospectus shall be replaced by the following:

"This could manifest itself for example by a rapid downgrade of DZ BANK's rating (issuer rating). Should DZ BANK's issuer rating fall below the level considered as an investment grade rating, then this could be seen as an indicator of a heightened threat of insolvency. If a rating agency assigns an investment grade rating to the issuer risk, this can be understood in principle to mean that the rating agency only sees a limited default risk in relation to the Issuer in question. At present, the major rating agencies S&P Global Ratings Europe Limited (Germany branch)<sup>1</sup> ("S&P"), Moody's Deutschland GmbH<sup>2</sup> ("Moody's") and Fitch Ratings – a branch of Fitch Ratings Ireland Limited<sup>3</sup> ("Fitch") assign DZ BANK an issuer rating which is, with respect to S&P, in the third-highest, and with respect to Moody's and Fitch, in the respective second-highest investment grade category. In 2019, the credit ratings for DZ BANK issued by S&P and Moody's were given a negative outlook. The reasons were the deteriorating economic conditions for German banks owing to a number of factors, including the low interest rates and the accompanying decline in profitability. In the 2020 financial year, Fitch also assigned DZ BANK's rating a negative outlook. The reason for this was the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the economic development in Germany and the associated additional pressure on the earnings and the risk situation of German banks. In the second quarter of the financial year 2021 S&P lowered the rating of DZ BANK by one notch and assigned it a stable outlook. The reason for that was a dampened view on the German banking market taken as a whole. From S&P's point of view there exists a long-term pressure on the profitability of German banks stemming from structural deficits like a high cost basis, increasing risks resulting from a technological disruption of the market and the continuing low interest rates. After the downgrade by S&P the rating of DZ BANK still remains in the investment grade category, which is also the case with respect to the rating by the other two agencies, i.e. although the rating outlook was changed to negative by Moody's and Fitch, DZ BANK's issuer rating would still be in the investment grade range even if it were downgraded by two rating notches."

The 2nd paragraph under the heading "RISK FACTORS SPECIFIC AND MATERIAL TO THE ISSUER – 1.3 Overarching bank-related risk factors – 1.3.3 Rating downgrades" on pages 21 and 22 of the Prospectus shall be replaced by the following:

"DZ BANK currently holds an issuer rating which is, with respect to S&P, in the third-highest, and with respect to Moody's and Fitch, in the respective second-highest category of Investment Grade sector from the Rating Agencies. In 2019, the credit ratings for DZ BANK issued by S&P and Moody's were given a negative outlook. The reasons were the deteriorating economic conditions for German banks, partly because of the low interest rates and the accompanying decline in profitability. In 2020, the DZ BANK rating from Fitch also had a negative outlook. This was due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the economic development in Germany and the related additional pressure on the earnings and risk situation of German banks. In the second quarter of the financial year 2021 S&P lowered the rating of DZ BANK by one notch and assigned it a stable outlook. The reason for that was a dampened view on the German banking market taken as a whole. From S&P's point of view there exists a long-term pressure on the profitability of German banks stemming from structural deficits like a high cost basis, increasing risks resulting from a technological disruption of the market and the continuing low interest rates. Therefore, it cannot be ruled out that S&P will lower the rating further or that also Moody's and Fitch will lower the rating of DZ BANK and possibly of its subsidiaries. Even after a further downgrade by S&P by one notch the rating of DZ BANK would still remain in the investment grade category. This is also the case with respect to the rating by the other

II. Replacement information pertaining to the section "DZ BANK AG DEUTSCHE ZENTRAL-GENOSSENSCHAFTSBANK, FRANKFURT AM MAIN"

The 3rd and 4th paragraph under the heading "INFORMATION ABOUT DZ BANK – Issuer Credit Ratings" on pages 42 and 43 of the Prospectus shall be replaced by the following:

"S&P:                    Issuer rating:     A+* short-term rating: A-1*

* joint rating for the Cooperative Financial Services Network (Genossenschaftliche FinanzGruppe)

S&P defines:

A: An obligor rated 'A' has strong capacity to meet its financial commitments but is somewhat more susceptible to the adverse effects of changes in circumstances and economic conditions than obligors in higher-rated categories.

Note:

The ratings from 'AA' to 'CCC' may be modified by the addition of a plus (+) or minus (-) sign to show relative standing within the rating categories.

A-1: An obligor rated 'A-1' has strong capacity to meet its financial commitments. It is rated in the highest category by S&P. Within this category, certain obligors are designated with a plus sign (+). This indicates that the obligor's capacity to meet its financial commitments is extremely strong."

(3) Keine Sicherheit/Keine Garantie. Die Schuldverschreibungen sind weder besichert noch Gegenstand einer Garantie der Emittentin oder Dritter, die die Rangstellung der Forderungen der Gläubiger von Schuldverschreibungen verbessert.
